Dress Code 2026-2027

Purpose

PPCS believes modesty is an important concept and virtue for every student to understand and practice. Current culture promotes versions of self-esteem that are self-centered, encouraging the flaunting physical attributes, wealth, style, or personality differences even to extremes. Whereas Biblical modesty is an attitude of Christ-centered value and humility with a thoughtfulness for others that is revealed in outward actions.

- At PPCS we believe this includes how one dresses (clothing, jewelry, hairstyle, body art, footwear, etc..). Thus, the PPCS Dress Code and its enforcement serves to help students:
- Practice a God-centered esteem vs false secular versions of esteem and confidence
- Express their own uniqueness, interests, and style with thoughtfulness and care
- Understand mindfulness and respect of others in dress and appearance
- Understand practical, effective, and/or safe dress for different occasions, activities, and circumstances
- Preserve for the marriage relationship dress that may encourage physical/sexual attraction
- Proactively protect from embarrassing and/or unintended situations impacting physical privacy

PPCS understands and manages an age-appropriate application of our dress code in a school ranging from students of toddler ages to young adults.

Requirements and Expectations

The dress code applies at school and activities where the student is under school supervision. Students should show good judgment in choosing items of dress, accessories, and hairstyles that do not call undue attention to the individual. Pikes Peak Christian School students should be clean, neat, well groomed, not disheveled, and dressed in an acceptable manner consistent with their biological sex. Students, while voluntarily at school events and not under school supervision, should be mindful of the dress code as they continue to represent the school in such situations.
